When choosing a security company, there are many things to consider. At PBI we have one suggestion:

Ask our clients if they feel safer.

In this rapidly changing world, PBI understands your need for security services that are both exemplary and cost effective. We have worked with many satisfied clients over the last decade and look forward to serving your organization with the same success.

Proudly providing these special services:

Unarmed and Armed Uniformed Guards

Threat Management

Uniformed Security (Armed and Unarmed)

PBI's team of Uniformed Security Officers are specially trained to meet our clients' needs. All officers must undergo careful screening, including an extensive interview and criminal background check. We strictly adhere to a philosophy of "maximum security with minimum disruption," which means the key responsibility of our officers is to prevent an incident before it occurs. As such, we ensure our Uniformed Security Officers remain highly visible in all their assignments.

Security Ambassadors

From the moment you step on to a property, you see them: security guards. Security guards see a lot of downtime, and many employers have been able to utilize the presence of officers as ambassadors to both their employees and customers. The guard can help with directions to a location, sign in visitors to corporate offices, escort employees to their cars after dark, and extend a steady hand in a moment of distress. PBI Security Ambassadors highlight customer service as integral in a security program.

Executive Protection (Plain Clothes, Armed and Unarmed)

PBI's Executive Protection Officers are highly-trained personnel, with years of experience working in the military, law enforcement or VIP services. These officers excel in handling such delicate assignments as political conventions and high-risk workplace terminations. They also serve as security escorts for corporate and celebrity clientele.

Global Security Details

Responding to our clients' need for protection from the escalating violence in Mexico, PBI has expanded its global footprint in recent years to provide enhanced services to Latin America. In particular, we specialize in the deployment of experienced security teams and escorts throughout the region that keep those we serve out of harm's way. Through strong relationships with local security experts, we take special care to collect any needed intelligence while maintaining a low profile.

Loss Prevention and Undercover Agents

PBI partners with our clients to develop, implement and evaluate their shrinkage prevention programs, helping to decrease shoplifting and boost revenue. We also meet our clients' staffing needs by providing undercover Loss Prevention Officers and Door Greeters. These personnel are specially instructed in crime prevention and report writing and work diligently to ensure shoplifting apprehensions are discrete and accurate. (The amount of wrongful apprehensions in the industry is notoriously high due to a lack of proper staff training and supervision.)

Threat Assessments/Workplace Violence Prevention

A threat assessment helps to determine the security risks an organization faces from its employees, customers and/or visitors. Dr. Picore conducts all threat assessments personally. Using a team approach, she works hand in hand with our clients' human resource, corporate security, loss prevention and legal departments to gather the necessary information. Interventions are then carefully chosen so as to deescalate any possible danger.

Investigations

PBI is also pleased to provide the following types of investigative services:

- Asset Protection/Strike Security
- Business Intelligence/Due Diligence
- Computer Forensics
- Intellectual Property Protection
- K-9 Bomb Detection
- On-site and Online Background Checks

Conflict-Management Training

You may wonder why a security company may go beyond offering traditional security services to provide conflict-management training. The reason is simple. We believe that many security issues stem from conflicts that arise as a result of miscommunication. PBI prides itself in leading specially-tailored training programs that help our clients better manage conflict by encouraging dialogue, supporting diversity and promoting teamwork.

Security & Investigations Insurance

Liability Insurance: $8,000,000.00

Worker's Compensation: $1,000,000.00 per occurrence

Media and Press

PBI's Founder/CEO, Dr. Picore, has been featured in Fortune SB Magazine and has appeared on numerous television shows, such as CNN Money, CNN Headline News and Court TV. Video clips of these interviews can be found at www.pbisecurity.com.

"Our mission is to provide, security, training, and investigative services for the safety and well-being of our clients."

Special Event Security

Special event management is a complex skill that few security companies--large or small--can execute properly.

PBI, however, has years of experience providing all levels of special event security for award shows, political conferences, concerts, festivals and executive board meetings. In addition to having the guard power needed to deploy hundreds of security staff to your venue of choice, we know how to work closely with local law enforcement officials and keep order during those events that may be controversial in nature. Leadership training for all on-site supervisors helps us to go above beyond mere crowd control and offer effective customer service that ensures every attendee enjoys maximum security with minimum disruption. Recent projects have spanned from those involving only a handful of executives to those boasting over 400,000 attendees. Overall, event security will keep things in order and respond when an incident gets out of hand or needs mediation. They are most commonly known as crowd management staff and their duties range extensively under the umbrella of putting on a safe and crowd controlled event.

Security is primarily responsible for crowd control. That means conforming to fire department rules of occupancy for the venue and checking that attendance does not exceed capacity.

INTRODUCING THEGREENGUARDS.COM
